MATTHEW R. BARNES is a partner in the Litigation Practice Group, where he represents plaintiffs and defendants in high-stakes disputes.

Mr. Barnes focuses his practice on unfair and deceptive trade practices, consumer protection, corporate misconduct, business torts, e-commerce, and commercial contracts. He has extensive experience litigating these matters on behalf of businesses and individuals and has tried multiple cases to verdict as lead trial counsel.

In Murphy v. Spongelle LLC, 716 F. Supp. 3d 358 (W.D. Pa. 2024), Mr. Barnes won dismissal of a lawsuit alleging that his e-commerce client's website and digital services violated Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act. He became the first attorney in the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania to successfully argue that online-only companies are not subject to Title III digital accessibility claims within the Third Circuit, which includes Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, and the U.S. Virgin Islands. The court designated the decision for publication and remarked that it was "one of those occasions when oral argument is actually very helpful to the Court."

Before joining Pietragallo, Mr. Barnes practiced at an international law firm. His work has earned recognition in The Best Lawyers in America: Ones to Watch®, where he has been recognized for Commercial Litigation in the 2026 and 2027 editions.

His commitment to effective advocacy is rooted in his legal training. A graduate of Georgetown University Law Center, Mr. Barnes was a member of the Georgetown Law Criminal Justice Clinic, where he represented clients in the D.C. Superior Court. He received Georgetown's Alan J. Goldstein Award, honoring the clinic member who best demonstrated excellence in advocacy, creativity, and leadership. He also competed on Georgetown's Moot Court team and served as a judicial intern to Chief Justice Debra Todd of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. He currently serves as Vice President of the St. Thomas More Society of Pittsburgh.

Representative Matters

Served as lead trial counsel in high-stakes commercial litigation, including disputes involving claims of tortious interference, breach of contract, unjust enrichment, and unfair trade practices.

Achieved the first dismissal of an ADA Title III digital accessibility lawsuit against a direct-to-consumer e-commerce company in the Western District of Pennsylvania on the grounds that online-only companies are not subject to Title III, reshaping the state of the law in a favored forum for website accessibility litigation.

Led the defense of e-commerce, retail, and consumer products companies headquartered across the country in numerous putative consumer class actions, negotiating favorable resolutions in matters with potential multi-jurisdictional exposure.

Secured dismissal of claims against a technology platform and online marketplace, successfully defending the neutrality of the digital service connecting consumers and service providers.

Obtained dismissal of multiple putative consumer class actions, including claims against jewelry and skincare/aesthetics companies.

Won summary judgment enforcing a contractual waiver on behalf of the world's largest ski resort owner and operator.
